Letters to The Editor

Ever since his Arkadelphia speech Oct. 19 advocating the removal from the voting lists of persons receiving Welfare eash grants or surplus comnedities state-wide mail has been coming to Alex. H. Washburn, editor and publisher of The Star. The Star will endeaver to publish all letters. Here

Editor The Star: Enclosed is copy of a letter I wrote today: Mr. William Loeb, publisher Manchester Union-Leader 9 Manchester, N. H.

Dear Mr. Locb: Thought you would be interested in the speech of Alex. H. Washburn, editor and publisher of the Hope (Ark.) Star. as reported in the Texarkana Ga-

Mr. Washburn is quite a character in his own right, as evidenced by the fight he put up in 1958 against the increase in the state sales tax from 2 to 3 cents. He spent a considerable sum of his own money to have the act referred to the vote of the people in the general election, and then campaigned actively against it.

The school teachers were used as a decoy for the increase, as well as those on the welfare rolls. Since both Faubus and the national administration are for big spending, the opponents of the inrease were defeated.

Hope, Ark., is about 33 miles from Texarkana, which had no sales tax at that time. Washburn claimed that the money he spent? against the tax increase was a proper deduction as a business expense for income tax purposes, as his paper would profit through the local advertisers spending more money at home.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue ≝lisagreed.

52 Voted, But Count Shows a Bare 30

DE VALLS BLUFF, Ark. (AP) -Fifty-two persons testified in Prairie Circuit Court Wednesday that they voted for a candidate who was certified as receiving only 30 votes in a Hazen box on Aug. 9, 1960.

The witnesses appeared at the trial of three election officials who are charged with fraudulent certification of votes in a Democratic primary runoff for 19th District Ctate senator between Sen. Jerry Screeton of Hazen and J. T. Gunter of Austin.

Certified returns for the box in which the 52 testified they voted showed 765 votes for Screeton and 30 for Gunter. Defendants are Contey Gray,

Aggies Are 3 Deep at Fullback

To know who's the Texas A&M fullback you'll have to listen for the introduction of players just before the kickoff. Even then You might be thwarted.

The Aggles have three fullbacks who are so close together in ability any one is likely to start a game. In practice you'll have to go by the colors of the jerseys² marcon for first team, white for second and blue for third team. The fullbacks, not necessarily in this order, are Jerry Rogers, Shim Byer and Lee Roy Caffey, They present quite a problem for the opposition. Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas was preparing to face it Wednesday as he sent his Razorbacks through a touch session on defense against ruse plays. But Broyles also noted that A&M now had its first real passing threat since the days of Charley Milstend. He's John Erickson, who doesn't pass often but sure connects when he does.
